Chapter 1 by lightningstrikeshannah (I'm back!)

It had been in Buffalo at the Ralph Wilson Stadium. Super Bowl 100 had been on a sunny Sunday afternoon, the perfect weather for some football. But as day turned to night, strange glitches in the technology started happening.

First, the JumboTron blacked out for a few seconds at a time. Then, the scores began to change to incorrect numbers. After that, some of the cameras turned off randomly. The technicians were surprised and confused. Glitches were common, but this was just strange.

As the workers went to figure out the malfunctions, suddenly, all of the lights went out, and a loud boom sounded as it rattled through the large stadium, which was filled to the brim with thousands of fans.
